

Tomahawk south will return to Parkland county

By Frank Ryan
Who's in and who's out?
That was the major question being asked last Thursday when Municipal Affairs Minister Dennis Anderson and MLA Shirley Cripps announced the boundaries for the municipal district of Braseau 77.

The area known as Tomahawk south (south of Highway 924) will be returned to the County of Parkland as the residents wanted. "We're back-dating the change to Dec. 31, 1987 which effectively means that area never left Parkland," Cripps stated in a prepared press release.

She emphasized the area going back to Parkland basically followed the school district boundary.

And, in keeping with the March 1 plebiscite, the Breton rural area that includes Lindale, Berrymoor and Cornwood and the Moose Hill area in the County of Leduc will be annexed to the new municipal district Dec. 31, 1988.

The delay is because of a taxation problem.

The announcement means that Alder Flats, Buck Lake and Moose Lake will not be included in the new municipal district which officially takes effect July 1.

According to the M.L.A. all three communities have the option to be included through normal annexation procedures.

Wayne Gent, president of the Tomahawk Ratepayers Association was extremely happy with the news. "Now, the kids can rejoin their friends in the bus-to-swim program they were going to be denied," Gent said.

Gent said the next move was to make Tomahawk the service centre for the west end of the county. "It will be a miniature version of Drayton Valley."

It's Gent's hope that both the county police and public works will relocate in Tomahawk, thus creating five or six new jobs.

The president of the ratepayers association was also glad the minister's decision had reunited their community.

Anderson came in for some praise from Gent.

"You have to give him some credit for recognizing the injustice and correcting them," Gent stated.

Gent also had some kind words for the media.

"I can't say enough about the media. We were a small group with a just cause. We would have never got it out without the media," he added.

The minister also announced plans for an election in late June for three of the new municipal districts. The other two seats will be voted on by the electors in the Breton rural and Moose Hill areas in the winter, just prior to those areas becoming part of the new MD.

The M.L.A. reaffirmed the fact the formation of the new MD responded to long standing concerns by local residents who feel they are better served by the formation of the new municipality.

While the MD boundary issue was settled, no announcement was made concerning the formation of a new school district.

Mill rate to stay the same

No changes are in sight for Drayton Valley's mill rate.

The 1988 mill rate, which received first and second reading by town council last week, remains at the same level it has been at since 1985.

The town has pegged a total of $6,664,561 for its spending requirements this year. Of this, the town plans on obtaining over $4.3 million through taxation.

Owners of residential property will be paying 23.61 mills for both public and separate school board zones.

Owners of non-residential property will find themselves paying 29.11 mills.

Nuisance properties are top priority

Dave Turner
Bylaw enforcement officer

Owners of nuisance properties will be under pressure to clean up their act this summer.

"It will be a little more concentrated this year," said bylaw enforcement officer Dave Turner, who is preparing a report for town council on nuisance properties in Drayton Valley.

The report will go a long way in defining the town's worst-kept residential and commercial areas.

Turner added that an inventory of all dilapidated automobiles in town will also be undertaken and the owners will be advised to either remove them or put a tarp over them.

Reducing the number of nuisance properties is one of the top priorities of administration, said Turner.

"It's actually improving over the years but we want this town to be completely free of all nuisance properties."

Turner pointed to several problem areas in terms of bylaw enforcement:

- Unattended trailers are not allowed to be parked on the street.
- Ball teams parking their vehicles in parking zones.
- Residents placing garbage in other residents' garbage bins.
- Theft of the plastic garbage pails from the wooden garbage containers on Main Street.
- Residents leaving their grass clippings on town boulevards or in back alleys or drainage ditches.
- Property owners are reminded they are responsible for cleaning up the back alleys right up to centre of the alley.
- Maintaining control of dandelions and weeds.

Opinions

Unpaved roads cause concern

It's surprising how 17 kilometres of gravel can ruin a trip.

But, that's often the case when taking Highway 22 south to Rocky Mountain House and beyond.

The 17 kilometres of gravel, the only section not paved on the route between Drayton Valley and Rocky, often leaves drivers furious over the conditions.

It's so bad, that one Rocky resident, who owns businesses in the two centres, refuses to use the route. Instead, they take a much longer route, through Eckville and Rimbey that adds at least another hour to the trip.

If drivers don't want to come off the gravel section with a rock chip or two on their windshield, SLOW DOWN. The only problem with that, is the guy who flies by at 70 miles per hour.

Plans are to pave the 17 kilometres this summer. And, it won't be soon enough for those people who use the short cut to such places as Calgary, Banff and U.S. points.

Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps and Rocky MLA Jack Campbell have taken a lot of "heat" over the condition of the highway. But surprising as it may seem, it's not in their constituency. It's part of the County of Ponoka, and it's obvious they aren't concerned.

But, because of the adverse effect the road is having on business and travellers alike, it would be encouraging to see the two area MLAs apply some pressure to the government to get the 17 kilometres paved as quickly as possible.

With summer holidays and the influx of visitors just around the corner, it would be good to see a start on the road now, not in the fall.

Uncertain credibility

Door-to-door salesmen becoming a problem in town

Several residents have expressed their concern of late over the number of door-to-door sales people.

Or, others asking for financial help.

Most people don't mind the person who is representing a local charitable group. It's the ones they don't know and don't particularly care for their approach.

One concern expressed over people soliciting for money, is that they often and up on one's doorstep without any prior notice. It has been suggested that this could be done through The Western Review.

If an Out-of-town sales rep appears on your doorstep and you're just not sure of

by Frank Ryan

their credibility, call the RCMP or the town's business license department.

We've seen our fair share of sales people come through the door, peddling everything from stationery supplies to cleaners. Most of the time, their office is the trunk of their car.

On occasion, when they are asked to produce a local business license, they quickly fold up their suitcase, and beat it out the door. That's when you get the make, color, and license number of their car, and call the town.

There are a lot of good sales people out there, who get a license and have a good product.

So, it's important to give these people a chance, but at the same time, it doesn't hurt to be safe, than sorry.

It's also important to remember, that if you don't want these people in your house, don't open the door.

Avison heading for Calgary

After six years in Drayton Valley, Const. Phil Avison is looking forward to a fresh challenge as a member of the RCMP's Calgary drug section.

Avison learned of his transfer to Calgary last week. Ironically, the local detachment's new commander, Staff Sgt. Jim Humphrey, just moved from Calgary's General Investigation Services Division.

Avison, 32, said the posting affords him a chance to become involved in a new area of police work.

"I have no idea exactly what I'll be doing," he added. "But I know it will be totally different than what I'm doing here."

He noted he'll be required to take further training before joining the 30- to 40-member drug section.

Drayton Valley was Avison's first posting after graduation from the RCMP training depot in Regina.

Prior to joining the force, the Saskatchewan native worked in the business sector in Winnipeg and Victoria.

Throughout his six years in town, Avison was active in the Klansmen Club and in a variety of sports, including slow-pitch, soccer and minor hockey.

He noted he and his wife Kelly and their two children will be taking a lot of fond memories with them to Calgary.

"There's a lot of good people in town."

Avison leaves for southern Alberta in August, pending the sale of his house. An officer from the Red Deer detachment has already been selected as his replacement.

Program will help students' self-esteem

A new program will be coming into effect in the junior and high schools in our area soon to help students reach a goal in life.

To promote the "Integrated Occupational Program" to students, parents and educators the Access Network will be giving a special "sneak preview" on the TV network channel May 18 at 7:30 p.m.

The preview is to show what the program is offering to students and educators.

IOP has been specifically developed for students who are experiencing difficulties in meeting the requirements of junior/senior high school.

The goal of IOP is to help students in developing self-esteem, better academic skills and social skills for job entry, further training and become a more responsible member of society.

The course that will be coming into effect in September is a five-year program and has been the study of Alberta Education.

Foresters to act as hosts

On the Victoria Day long weekend (which starts Friday night) 10,000 travellers on Alberta highways will enjoy free refreshments and western hospitality at the rest stops located throughout the province.

Volunteers representing the Independent Order of Foresters (IOF) will act as the hosts at seven rest stop locations.

The rest stops are located at Valleyview (Highway 43), Wandering River (Highway 63 north), Edson (Yellowhead Highway 16 west), Wetaskiwin (Highway 2

north), Dickson-Stevenson Stepping House (Highway 2 south of Crossfield, Mulk

River (Highway 41) and Walsh Travel Information Centre (Highway 11).

'Community's efforts lousy' — Luc

The newly-appointed president of the Block Parents association says his main battle right now is against local apathy.

"I feel the community's effort has been lousy," Dale Luc said after only five people showed up at a meeting he called last week in an attempt to garner more executive members.

Block Parents has proven to be a worthwhile program in other communities, added Luc, who was named the organization's president last month.

"Studies show that crimes against children have been noticeably reduced following the establishment of Block Parents programs across Canada," he added.

Luc's chief preoccupation right now is the incorporation of the Block Parents program into a society for fund-raising purposes.

"Groups like the Kiwanis and the Legion will be more likely to donate to a society rather than a one-man operation," said Luc.

On a more positive note, Luc stressed the demand for Block Parents house signs has increased, adding that Alberta Block Parents programs are currently back-ordered by 12,500.

"This shows what other communities are doing," he pointed out.

Nevertheless, Luc maintains he will press on.

Since taking over the reins of the organization April 21, the real estate agent has managed to draft two new members onto the executive: Kara Mattison (secretary-treasurer) and Dorraine Kenworthy (vice president).

"It's not a big commitment," said Luc.

"There are very few meetings...about 1½ hours a month is all the time that is needed."

For more information, contact Dale Luc at 842-2888 or 542-2818.

R.H. Woods scholarship up for grabs

Deadline for the R.H. Woods Memorial Scholarship is June 1.

This year will be the fourth year for the annual $1,000 award, which was named after Frank Maddock high school's late principal.

Applications are reviewed on the basis of academic achievement, demonstrated school leadership and involvement and community service.

All applicants must be in Grade 12 and plan on attending a post-secondary institution.

"We invite, even encourage, nominations from the public," said Al Day, the school's principal.

Hire A Student opens its doors

By Michael McQuillan
Facing the future job market is a scary subject for many post-secondary students.

For Trudy Baines, a Drayton Valley student attending Briercrest Bible College, easing that fear meant getting a career-oriented summer job through the local Hire A Student office.

The 18-year-old college student is now working at Gest Construction after registering at the summer employment centre for students.

"I love it, it's great," she says of her secretarial job.

Baines was the first student registered and placed this year by the manager of Hire A Student, Tracey Vatter.

Vatter, herself a student, is returning to the position she held last year and hopes to make the program more successful with local businesses. "Companies are more active registering jobs this year and students will have a better chance to get a job," says Vatter.

Last year the program registered 164 students and placed 161 in part-time and full-time summer jobs. "Once students are placed and working businesses tend to be impressed with their skills," says Vatter.

This year the program's goal is to meet or beat last year's accomplishments, says Vatter. She says many businesses are hearing about how good the student workers are through word of mouth.

"We try to encourage businesses to register even the smallest jobs," says Vatter. "Every job we fill with a student increases employee confidence in the program."

Hire A Student week will be held the first week of July in Drayton Valley.

Support group helps alleviate feelings of isolation

By Steve Fleicher

Betty Roberts witnessed her husband, Jack, slowly fall victim to what she describes as a "degrading" illness — Alzheimer's Disease.

She watched as his mind deteriorated while his body remained healthy, and she saw how Alzheimer's causes grown men and women to regress back to a child-like mentality.

Before Jack's transfer to the extended care unit of the Drayton Valley health complex, Betty had to feed, clothe and wash Jack daily and had to keep an almost constant 24-hour vigil over him because of his incessant wandering.

At one point, Betty would barricade all the doorways in the house so that, if Jack woke and decided to wander, his attempt to get past the barricades would act as an alarm for Betty.

"Most nights you just don't sleep," said Betty. "You have to remain alert."

Betty added that dealing with her husband's frustration over his growing loss of memory and his inability to undertake simple tasks was a constant concern.

"If you tried to hurry him, he just wouldn't cooperate at all...he wouldn't take any advice, he wouldn't eat, he wouldn't drink."

Added Betty: "For a long time he was hallucinating...we went through some pretty scary episodes and stages.

Jack, a former aircraft mechanic, was 63 when he was diagnosed with the disease in November 1985.

But Betty remembers that the first signs something was wrong began to develop a few years earlier when Jack had trouble coping with activities that were once second nature. Since moving Jack into the extended care unit last autumn, Betty has been able to devote time to her goal of establishing a support group for the families of Alzheimer's victims.

Meetings have taken place since last July, but Betty believes more publicity is needed to increase attendance.

"What we're trying to do is help one another by exchanging things you've learned through your experiences (caring for Alzheimer's sufferers)."

Mary de Jong, coordinator of the extended care unit, says there is a strong demand for such a support group in Drayton Valley.

Currently there are between 10 and 12 patients in the unit diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease, de Jong noted.

She added that correctly diagnosing an Alzheimer's sufferer is often a complex equation because there are several other illnesses with similar symptoms, including senility.

de Jong said a geriatrics specialist from Edmonton, Dr. David Shelton, comes out once a month to tend to patients at the unit and it was he who initially encouraged the formation of a support group in town.

Betty said part of the group's objective is to quell the feeling of isolation among many families of Alzheimer's victims.

"Visits (from friends) gradually get less regular because they don't know how to handle it," she added.

"You're very alone...long-time friend Mary Kjerlien helped me through the really hard times. She saved my sanity."

Still, the hardest part for her has been to watch her husband of 41 years regress mentally to the point where he often has difficulty recognizing exactly who she is.

"It's really a degrading disease," said Betty.

The Alzheimer's Disease support group meets every second Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Pembina Room of the hospital.

On June 14, psychiatrist Dr. Barbara Turner will be the group's first speaker.

Less players means less support

By Michael McQuillan
Change is a part of life but for the Senior Men's Central Alberta Rural Town Soccer League and the Drayton Valley United soccer team, change may mean an end to a 10-year tradition.

"We're not folding," says Simon Kelly, league organizer. "We may not have such a strong commitment this year but we're going to keep it going."

This year the league is likely to field six teams playing in exhibition matchups only, says Kelly.

The 10-year-old men's soccer league has less support this year due to players moving away from their communities. The DV United roster has been hit especially hard with roster changes.

"We lost seven of our major players and we haven't had a chance to recruit from the recreational league yet,"

Simon Kelly
says Kelley, goaltender on last year's Drayton Valley side.

In previous years the rural league had more than a dozen teams competing. Last year only five squads competed in the league with DV United coming out on top.

This season many players from DV United will be wearing the jersey of recreational teams and occasionally throwing on the uniform of their old squad for an exhibition match-up.

Kelly, who is also president of the recreational league, hopes the season will get under way soon. "Anyone interested in getting a team in the league had better get their players list in soon," cautioned Kelly.

He expects between four to six teams to join the recreational league. Any players interested in joining the recreational league should contact Simon Kelly at 542-2700.

Legion giving a helping hand

The Royal Canadian Legion's $250,000 donation to the Drayton Valley Curling Club is just the tip of the iceberg for the town's biggest community financial supporter.

The Legion presented the curling club with the first installment of the donation last week.

The Legion gives away about $100,000 every year to non-profit groups.

Vern Bartlett, the Legion's first vice president, says the organization is required to donate 50 per cent of its earnings to community.

The remaining portions goes to Command (five per cent) and into the Legion's operating expenses (45 per cent).

Splash and dash with the pool for fitness week

A number of activities are planned for Drayton Valley in conjunction with Canada Fitness Week May 20-29.

The activities kick-off Friday, May 20 with Sneaker Day. People are urged to wear sneakers that day and walk down to the pool and enter the draw for a prize. T-shirt Day will be held Saturday, May 21.

After taking the Victoria Day weekend off, a Fit Splash is scheduled for the 24th followed by a 250-metre water run during Splash and Dash and the lunch break on Publicity chairman Cynthia Edgar says the organization receives about eight applications per month from local groups — with the fate of each one decided at the Legion's general meetings.

The Legion currently has approximately 1800 ordinary, associate and fraternal affiliates.

The 24th, a fitness poster contest is slated for the 25th with Fit Splashes the next two days in conjunction with Red Cross lessons.

Lifeguards earn award

By Michael McQuillan
Since opening three years ago the Park Valley Pool has had only one major medical emergency.

However lifeguard staff at the pool are still kept busy, says Debbie Brigley, assistant manager of the local pool. "We've treated over 100 kids for scrapes and bruises," she says.

Many people attribute this excellent safety record to the qualified lifeguards working at the pool.

To test the aquatic staff's competence each member recently had to pass an exam certifying them for the National Lifeguard Service Award.

On May 11 more than a dozen pool staff and volunteers were run through a day of testing for their NLS Award.

Brigley is pleased with the results of the testing. All participants passed the test, earning their NLS award.

She describes the testing as "a way to keep everybody refreshed and on their toes."

Treating medical emergencies, demonstrating knowledge of the mechanics and maintenance of the facility, understanding chemical safety and exhibiting good public relation skills were required by the pool watchdogs.

The exam had the lifeguards run through a number of emergency simulations such as spinal cord injuries, power failures, fire alarms and a search for a missing child.

No support — no rodeo

There's a good chance the Tomahawk rodeo won't be held this summer.

Vance Ultri, chairman of the rodeo committee told The Western Review he can't get any help or support.

Only two people attended a recent rodeo meeting. "Everyone's waiting for someone else to do it," Ultri said.

For the first time in its 11-year history, the mid-August rodeo broke even at the gate last year, after making money in the previous attempts.

Ultri says some people in the community are disapppointed that last year's show only broke even.

As far as Ultri is concerned there won't be a rodeo in Tomahawk this year unless someone comes forth to volunteer their services. If they do, he will give them a hand.

Ultri feels some people may not be coming forth because August is a busy time for them. With that in mind, he had hoped to propose a switch to a June date. He also had thoughts of switching to an amateur show.

"It's a shame it's not going. But, I'm not prepared to run it myself," Ultri added.

Don and Maria Zemaitis

Managers move to Calgary

The managers at Birchwood Village Greens for the past year left unexpectedly last Saturday.

Don and Maria Zemaitis, manager at the nine-hole golf course and resort have moved to Calgary.

Buser Realty, owners of Birchwood Village Greens, are expected to name a replacement shortly.

Prior to departing the Zemaitis expressed their thanks to everyone who helped make their stay this past year so enjoyable.

Membership sales and green fees are up this year at Birchwood, due in part, to a reduction in the cost of a membership and a special green fee rate.

Prior to coming to Birchwood the Zemaitis ran the Carefree Resort, an recreational vehicle park near Innisfail.

Golf club hires workers

Archie Hood had some good news and some bad news.

First the good news. Hood, president of the Drayton Valley golf club announced that three of four STEP students the club had applied for, would be working at the course this summer.

And, the club's application for the Canadian Employment and Immigration grant had also been granted. This will give the opportunity to have six people work a 40 hour week for six months.

The six people, who are on unemployment insurance, will be involved in new construction at the course.

Money offers

A couple of service companies in Drayton Valley have expressed interest in contributing to the second tee facility, but only if it's covered.

Paul Neilsen, the town's recreation director says he's aware of the proposed donation, but hasn't received any formal offer.

"We're having problems getting the funds for the first tee surface," Neilsen stated.

George Bergquist, chairman of the Community Centre Society, said he was also aware of the possibility of the companies making a sizeable financial contribution toward the planned second tee, only if the town would consider covering it.

In other good news, Hood said the architect and course designer had checked out the new holes, and they should be playable by July 1. On that date, the existing holes will be closed to allow upgrading in time for the 1989 golf season.

And, as of May 7 the club had sold 425 memberships.

The only bad news Hood had, and it's now in the past, is the course was closed Monday to allow the caterpillar to be sprayed.

Trustees approve new contract

By Bill Ingler

Leduc Representation
Leduc county school trustees have approved a motion calling for implementation of school based janitorial contracts effective Aug. 1. The contracts will be limited to the rate currently paid Modern Building Cleaning Ltd. and subject to a five-per-cent administrative fee. The motion came as a result of a building committee report to the board. A contract with Modern Building Cleaning Ltd. for janitorial service expires July 31. Reeve Norman Bittner questioned the decision to move to school-based contracts.

"We have received reports the schools are well maintained and what prompted this decision," he said. Councillor urban trustee Bert Brown noted concerns from a number of regions.

"We've had complaint after complaint about the cleanliness of our schools. No one is happy — with one exception," he said.

"It is an attempt to get away from the original source of complaints. The contracts would come from our central office," said Brown.

Beaumont urban trustee Kerry Bonness also noted concerns from parents. "The public perception is there's something wrong with the way we clean our schools," she said.

Members of administration expressed concern about the process which would require 18 separate contracts for each county school. Superintendent Bob MacDonald also noted concerns about added cost if the projects were tendered.

The county of Leduc currently pays a janitorial fee of $5.89 per square metre. If material costs are included, the price comes to $6.79 per square metre. The county of Leduc has 45,200 square metres of school space.

Trustees also learned the county of Leduc has the lowest rates for janitorial service of several regions. The county of Strathcona pays $7.28 per square metre while the county of Parkland pays $22.

Single parents forming group

A chapter of the One Parent Family Association is being formed in Drayton Valley.

The purpose of the association is to encourage families with only one parent to promote their families' place in a society based on a traditional two-parent home.

Programs sponsored by the association range from educational activities such as speakers and workshops, to adult social activities and recreational and social activities for the whole family.

The theme of the association is "Working Together to Help Each Other." The association is open to any family with one parent — separated, divorced, widowed or never married. You don't have to have custody of your children to be a member.

The association's open meeting is Wednesday, May 18, Hospitality Night. The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Provincial Building. Everyone is welcome.

A woman looks over one of the show cars at Mayhew Motors' ladies evening.

Mayhew holds ladies evening

A special evening was held at Mayhew Motors last Wednesday for women interested in buying a vehicle.

With the increase in female buyers, Mayhew Motors believed women should know about terminology, makes and other information about vehicles.

Pat Vos, a sales representative at Mayhew's was the host for the evening.

"Our purpose of this evening is to give them information on shopping for a vehicle," stated Vos.

Hearing that women find most sales representatives don't take them serious about buying Vos thought the idea of a ladies evening would be a valuable asset to the community.

With 20-plus women in attendance the evening started with a showing of the different makes of vehicles and ended with a question and answer session.

"We want to educate them on the methods of buying and prices. We even put a list of the features and ways of buying on each of the cars we are showing," said Vos.

Recycling project a bonus for community

By Jon Arnold
and Rob Macintosh
The Pembina Initiative

We're all getting tired of hearing about Edmonton's woes over finding a garbage dump site. Suggestions range from trucking their garbage far away, to putting it in the mail, to filling the Sad diode with it.

Whatever they eventually decide to do with it, their specific difficulty has highlighted a major problem in our consumer society. We produce too much garbage.

Each Canadian produces about one kilogram of household refuse every day. That means in the course of a year, each of us has produced almost 900 pounds of garbage that has to be dealt with. That figure is just household garbage.

If we were to examine office refuse, industrial wastes, and other contributors, the per capita average is many times higher. The problem we are facing is what to do with all this garbage, which is costing more and to landfill.

Recycling is one obvious solution which is rarely used to its full potential. We think of recycling being for pop bottles and cans. But recycling can be much more than that. Economically feasible recycling could reduce our garbage production by 75 per cent. Paper products alone account for 50 per cent of the household garbage we produce, and even more of the office and business garbage.

Drayton Valley is about to embark on a recycling project. The Lions Club and the Pembina Initiative for Applied Science (Pembina Initiative) joined forces to bring this about.

The project has been endorsed by the town of Drayton Valley, the chamber of commerce, the Drayton Valley Association for the Developmentally Handicapped and Shirley Cripps, our M.L.A. It will initially be only for paper, but will begin to handle cardboard in the next year, and might eventually expand to include glass, tin and aluminum.

The idea of recycling is as old as nature itself, where everything is recycled. The idea of anything being non-renewable was inconceivable until the last century. Food, shelter and fuel were all recycled resources. It is only recently we have been able to use up natural resources faster than they can be renewed or found.

One of the major environmental benefits of recycling is environmental.

Fewer natural resources are needed to produce the same amount of goods. The production of these goods will take less energy and create less pollution. However, the benefits are also economic. Generally, it is cheaper to recycle materials rather than refine them for natural resources. Two hundred years ago it was discovered pulp used to make paper could be made more easily from old paper than from wood. Old trees and energy (and the money) that was garbage disposal.

The process of recycling, while costing less, actually is purchased.

employs more people. Money is being spent putting people to work rather than on trying to harvest or extract, and refine raw materials.

The end product is cheaper, but just as good as the original. Recycling will also cut down on dealing with garbage, resulting in a substantial saving for a town like Drayton Valley, once fully implemented.

A final economic benefit is that paper taken in for recycling is being managed by a volunteer organization - our Lions Club - the money will go toward community and recreational projects.

In late June the Lions hope to have the system in place for recycling newspaper, and office paper. Drayton Valley residents will be given the opportunity to raise funds for worthwhile projects in town, help save landfills space, contribute to a cleaner environment and reduce our unnecessary waste of resources.

All for no cost and a minimum of time - just the time it takes to throw your used newspapers in a closet for a week or two, then bundle them up with string, or in a bag and drop them off at the paper trailer - probably next to the bottle depot.

We're looking forward to your support.

While a recycling depot here is town is not going to solve all the environmental problems related to garbage, it is a small but important step we can all take.

More information regarding the Drayton Valley recycling project will be out soon.

Minister declares May cycle awareness month

Transportation and Utilities Minister Al Adair has declared May as motorcycle and bicycle safety awareness month in Alberta.

Provisional statistics for last year reveal that 30 motorcyclists were killed and 941 injured in Alberta while nine bicycle riders were killed and 708 injured.

"Summer is the time for riding on two wheels but because motorcyclists and bicyclists are very exposed and therefore especially vulnerable to impact injury, they should ride defensively at all times," Adair said.

Vehicle drivers are reminded to keep a special lookout for motorcycles and bikers and to show them the same respect they would another vehicle on the road.

Host family sought

A wonderful and worthwhile adventure awaits the privileged family which welcomes Patricia Schemel, a 17-year-old student from Caracas, Venezuela.

Schemel has long dreamed of completing one year of high school in Alberta while establishing strong ties with a host Canadian family. To help make that dream come true, Interculture Canada is seeking families in the surrounding area to reach out and open their home to Schemel, who arrives in August.

Schemel sees herself as a friendly, flexible and happy person. As an only child, she values and enjoys people, loves music and enjoys sports, especially water skiing.

This year Interculture Canada will receive 195 students from 38 different countries, some of whom have not yet been matched with a host family. The organization encourages your family to join the growing number of families who have lived and enjoyed the hosting experience—an adventure that has opened a whole new world to them.

For more information on hosting Patricia Schemel, or another student, contact Anita Mighali at 484-4933 or toll free 1-800-361-1878.

KEEPING ALBERTA ON THE MOVE

Watch for Alberta Transportation and Utilities road construction in your area this spring and summer.

Our department has contracted construction in many areas of Alberta this year (see map) to maintain existing highways and build new ones to keep the province on the move.

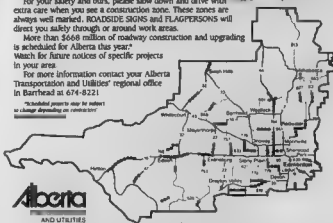

For your safety and ours, please slow down and drive with extra care when you see a construction zone. These zones are always well marked, ROADSIDE SIGNS and FLAGPERSONS will direct you safely through or around work areas.

More than $668 million of roadway construction and upgrading is scheduled for Alberta this year.*

Watch for future notices of specific projects in your area.

For more information contact your Alberta Transportation and Utilities' regional office in Barhead at 674-8221.

A new start

It's an all new provincial, beginning with tickets for the May 27 draw date.

Effective with that draw, the top prize for a match of the seven-digit number drawn each Friday doubles from $500,000 to $1,000,000. And, the ticket pouch takes on an ever-popular Match Three scratch format.

Subsidary prizes for matching the last two through six digits of the seven-digit numbers drawn will include $10, $25, $100, $1,000 and $10,000. And the instant Match Three prize lineup will include free tickets of $5, $50, $500 and $5,000. The overall chances of winning a prize on the new provincial will be one in five.

The changes, designed to enhance the appeal of the nation-wide provincial, do not affect the ticket price or the number of draws for which each ticket is valid. The provincial remains a $5 lottery game with tickets valid for five consecutive dates. The changes follow extensive testing conducted over the past two years.

Enjoying a launch break

By Frank Ryan

A series of rockets were launched recently in Drayton Valley.

But, before you call the authorities read on.

The launching held in St. Anthony's school yard, was part of Dan Cavanagh's astronomy class project.

Forty Grade 8 students, working in pairs along with members of the school's first year rocket club, took to the school yard recently to test their projects.

Model kits were purchased about a month ago ranging from $4 to $50. After they had been assembled, painted and decals added, small engines, priced from $3 to $15 (for three) were installed. Then, in preparation of the launch, a firing powder was added.

The student population that turned out for the launching was in awe.

Some of the rockets shot 2,500 feet upward. Others didn't go as far, but Cavanagh, a first year mathematics teacher at St. Anthony's, called it a very successful launch.

Cavanagh's opinion meant a lot, especially to members of the astronomy class, who were graded on flight, detail and ideas.

The first rocket off the pad was never found. With a wind it shot off the ground and headed south over the Frank Maddock school grounds. The next rocket took a different route and ended up on the front lawn of a home across from the school. The rest of the rockets all landed in the school yard.

Two rockets, which drew a lot of attention from students, was the Astro-Cam 110 that contained a camera and a shuttle rocket.

The rocket club at St. A's has 35 members. "Here's a chance to join a club that's not sports," Cavanagh said.

The interest caused by the astronomy class and the rocket club has shown Cavanagh that his time was worth the effort.

Several students have built their own rockets. Haren Lasek built his own engine out of some of his own propellant and Cavanagh's even heard of some kid's dad building a launching pad.

Mother's Day Tea

The Lutheran Church kindergarten held its annual Mother's Day Tea on the Friday before Mother's Day. There, a young student shows off gifts made by the students especially for mom. The class also put together a recipe book detailing their mothers' favorite meal.

Alder Flats

Drayton Valley seniors win at floor curling

By Bernice Johnson
The senior citizens of Alder Flats hosted a floor curling tournament last month. Seven teams from Rimby, Rocky Mountain House, Lethbridge, Mulhurst, Falun, Drayton Valley, Wetaskiwin and Alder Flats participated. Placing first with 24 points were the Drayton Valley foursome of Winnie and Albert Martin, Hulda Rand and Helen Schipper.

Second place winners were Alex and Marion Newton, Bernice Sammers and Paul Pelet of Wetaskiwin.

A fire shower on behalf of Eva and Gordon Flanders and children was held recently. The Flanders lost their home and possessions when the trailer they were renting burned to ground April 15. The family will spend a few days with his brother at Wase Lake, B.C., but their plans are uncertain at this time.

Marion and Brenda Hoffman attended the banquet and exercises for the graduation of Sherry's fiancée Glen Mitzell at the Lutheran College in Camrose. Brenda's relative, Rhonda Giesbrecht also graduated from the college.

Congratulations to Wayne and Heather Braus on the birth of their daughter, Angela Dawn April 29 in the Rimby hospital. A little sister for Donnie Proud grandparents are Rudy and Vera Braus and Bev Siegel of Buck Lake. Grand-grandparents are Maggie Siegel of Buck Lake, Isabel Willows of Rimby and Leon Braus of Winfield.

Unexpected visitors

When Ken Sherchenko returned home recently from a three-week stint in Syria, he found a bird's nest under the back of his truck. It included three eggs, that Sherchenko displays in the palm of his hand.

Be prepared for camping

When was the last time you saw a phone on a tree? Or pitched your tent next to a doe for a co-sleeping session?

If you answered never in both of these questions, you are not alone. Yet every year thousands of Albertans head for the lake or the woods, unprepared for the hazards of the wilderness.

In many Alberta rithes and towns a call to 911 will bring emergency help within minutes. In rural areas, help is also available at the other end of the phone line. But at the campsite or cottage or deep in the woods, emergency help may be a long way off. Finding a phone may be nearly impossible.

Before you head for the wilderness this year, St. John Ambulance says, "be prepared." Your camping trip or wilderness adventure can be exciting and fun, if you plan ahead. It can be a nightmare if you don't.

A well-equipped first aid kit is essential to the camper. If your camping trip will take you away from public camp sites and hiking areas, you should also have a survival plan and carry a survival kit.

According to St. John Ambulance, your survival kit should include waterproof matches, flint and steel and some tinder wire says the kit firewood, cord to make shelter, etc., unbreakable mirror (for signaling), whistle to attract attention, beef cubes, raisins, fish hooks and line, snare wire, candle and a metal container to store items in and for cooking.

You should also carry a compass, a sharp hunting knife and enough food for at least one extra day for every five days planned.

For a free copy of Your Guide to Wilderness First Aid and Survival write to St. John Ambulance, Provincial Headquarters, 10975 124 St. Edmonton, AB T5M 0B8.

Religious consumers shop around also

By Rev. Barry Parher
All Saints' Anglican Church
When visiting or talking to people I often hear comments like "I believe in God but I don't need church." I am a Christian, but I don't have to go to church. "I believe in God but in my own way."
To me, all of these comments can be re-phrased in the following form: "I believe in something, but on my terms."

That is interesting to hear and debate in this day and age. It is interesting in that we appear to live in an age and a society that places God at our disposal and use in instead of the other way around.

Dr. Reginald Bobby, in his book Fragmented Gods, discusses how the consumer mentality of our society translates into our religious beliefs as well.
Just as we shop for sales, name brands, bargains and no name generics, so the religious consumer shops around as well.

We often want to be a part of a successful church, or to be married in the prettiest church. It also appears to be important that, like much of our society, God is disposable. He doesn't meet our immediate desires. In other

the Pastor's

words the mindset of the advertising and marketing industry can now be applied to the religious market as well. The marketing has become much more important than the product itself.

All of this fragmentation begs the question: "What does the church have to offer today?" More importantly, "What is a Christian to believe in this day and age?"

Let me offer six fundamental tenets of the Christian faith that no manner of packaging or marketing can alter.

Jesus is God's only Son, but was human like any other man so that He could share our human suffering.

Jesus teaches me that I am a rebel sinner and shows me a better way to live (confession, repentance and conversion).

Jesus died to bring me God. Jesus rose from the dead and provides a place for me in heaven.

Jesus lives in my heart now by His Holy Spirit and makes me one with the people of (and).

When you go looking for answers, for meaning in life, for hope for God Himself, are you the shopper of the "80s who picks and chooses what you like?" Or, are you willing to be purchased by Someone who gives hope, meaning and everlasting life?

Jesus came to tell us about God, and show us how much He loves us.

Canola prices may be down in '88

Although 1988-89 canola prices aren't expected to set any records, one processor says there is a good long term future for the oilseed industry in Alberta and Western Canada.

Dr. Stewart Campbell, vice president, grain division, of Canbra Foods Ltd. in Lethbridge told a recent Alberta Agriculture conference that this year's weather will have the biggest impact on prices.

But he said the growing acceptance of canola oil in the food industry will increase demand for the product over the next decade.

Speaking to the ninth annual Acres '88 Taking Stock conference in Calgary Campbell told farmers because of variables expected in this growing season they should try to sell their crop all in one shot.

"Given the uncertainty of yields and harvest conditions sales should be cautiously scaled in small parcels," he said. "As the canola crop develops in Canada, and the condition of the U.S. soybean crop becomes known sales can be increased."

"Assuming a reasonable output, crusher and elevator bids are expected to decline to about $240 per tonne for canola in the fall and recover in the new year."

The Canbra spokesman said although there may be a price increase this spring, responding to a U.S. move to stimulate soybean plantings, the rally in canola will be limited.

He said short term prices will depend on yields of soy beans from other major producing countries and the risk of a large stock carryover which could deliver cheap oilseed on the world market.

He said western Canadian farmers are also expected to increase canola acreage by about 15 per cent this year. Quoting a United Grains Growers report he said farmers are expected to plant about 7.5 million acres this year compared to 6.6 million acres in 1987.

Red meat has fewer calories than before

By Bev Brooks
District Home Economist

Red meat deserves a place in any well-balanced diet. From the trusted recommendations of Canada's Food Guide to the advice of informed health and medical experts across the country, meat is an integral part of good nutrition.

At one time red meat was labelled as being too high in fat and cholesterol. It was feared red meat consumption could lead to heart disease and other health problems.

Over the past 16 years the Alberta red meat industry has kept pace with changing lifestyles, nutrition concerns and consumer eating preferences to produce nutrient-dense lean beef, pork and lamb. This means a single serving of Alberta red meat can supply good quantities of nutrients with fewer calories than ever before.

Alberta beef, pork and lamb are lean meats. An average serving of three ounces of lean red meat contains less than 200 calories.

This low calorie level recently confirmed by government and university research is 35 to 50 per cent lower than 15 years ago. The 1987 Health and Welfare Canada Nutrient Value of Some Common Foods uses these lower figures for the calories, fat and cholesterol composition of red meats.

Ironically, these figures are already out of date as more recent research has revealed pork is 25 per cent leaner on the average than these figures show. Consumers are eating a nutrient-dense product with a comparable fat and lower cholesterol content than either skinned poultry or fish.

Alberta producers have improved the quality of our red meats by producing leaner carcasses which comply with the latest Canadian grading standards. Retailers are also trimming off external fat in response to consumer demand for lean meats.

The health benefits of lean red meat can be maintained by choosing leaner cuts of meats, trimming the meat by removing all visible fat; using cooking methods that don't call for added fat such as browning, broiling and grilling, when oven roasting, placing the meat on a rack, draining the fat from regular ground beef before adding other ingredients, reducing the oil content of marinades and avoiding rich sauces.

Research has shown it is an oversimplification to single out one food group as being a risk to our well being. There is no perfect food that can provide all the nutrients needed by the body in exactly the right amounts.

Good health involves a sensible diet featuring balance, moderation and variety, together with regular exercise, maintaining a healthy weight, controlling stress and not smoking.

There's more to spit than meets the eye

If your saliva was gasoline and your car needed 12 litres to go 100 kilometres, you could travel 124 km every day just by spitting on the tank. You could produce about 1 1/2 litres of saliva every 24 hours.

Since spitting on buses and in the street is frowned upon, and spittoons are hard to find, most saliva is swallowed and retained by the body. Most serious spitting these days is done by baseball players.

We have several hundred salivary glands, all but six are very small. The named glands are paired: the parotids, in front of the ears; the submandibular glands in the jaw; and the sublingual on the floor of the mouth. Saliva reaches the mouth through small tubes or ducts.

Too much saliva may be due to overproduction caused by pain (the dentist), stimulant food (lemon, pickle), or tasting something nasty. Drooling is usually the result of being unable to clear normal amounts of saliva. Babies and the mentally retarded often have problems with the swallowing mechanism, as do older people with such things as Parkinson's disease or senility.

Not enough saliva indicates diseased glands, dehydration, radiation (X-ray) exposure in cancer treatment, or use of a number of prescription drugs that cause dryness of the mouth. Beta blockers, an ti-thiamines and antidepressants are common culprits. Salivary glands can become infected, mumps being the prime example. As distressing as the bacterial infections found in sick dehydrated patients with poor mouth hygiene, Lemon glycerine swabs are used in hospitals to help keep mouths moist and clean.

A stone may form in the salivary duct, backing up saliva and causing the gland to swell. The stone can usually be removed easily, but sometimes the gland must be removed also.

Surgical removal of the gland is also required if cancer is present, a fairly common occurrence. A walnut sized parotid gland may require four or five hours to dissect out if the important facial nerve, interspersed within the gland, is to be preserved.

So, there's more to spit than meets the eye!

Books for planning a wedding available

By Lois-Pedersen, librarian
Your library has just received the updated (fifth) Union catalogue which gives the listing of all books within the Alberta and British Columbia Regional Library system.
In searching author title or subject patrons can determine which books are available. This greatly speeds the access of materials in all libraries loan.

But they go at low, low prices. The book sale is in its last few days and all titles are priced to go. There are still a few titles for vacation time. Show now or lose out on some good reading at great away prices.

Just about wedding
Everything you need to know but perhaps couldn't find out about planning a wedding. Your library has collected a series of books and pamphlets about weddings and put them in one kit for patrons to sign out. The kit is located in adult non-fiction 972.22 V.21.

It is handy and easy to read through. It includes creating your own ceremonies and in various wedding toasts and how to propose them, wedding etiquette, planning and preparation tips for the bride and groom, their attendants and parents.
Your library also has several other books about weddings. These include Bride's Wedding Planner, Our Wedding Your Way, Louise's Wedding Guidebook and When Your Daughter Marries.

THE WESTERN

Review

Reigning Miss Universe Cecilia Bolocco prepares to give up her crown to this year's winner during "The 1988 Miss Universe Pageant." It airs Monday May 23 on CBS.

In CBS's "Nightmare at Bitter Creek," Lindsay Wagner stars as one of a group of women who, along with their guide (Tom Sheritt) finds a wilderness trip turning into a horrifying ordeal. It airs Tuesday May 24.
